Director of Graduate Studies Transmittal Form
(Save the blank form to a local folder before completing it.)

Acknowledging the lack of diversity in college faculty around the country, the UIC Pipeline to an Inclusive Faculty (PIF) Program is designed to recruit and support outstanding underrepresented PhD students, who are committed to pursuing careers as faculty members. PIF scholars will receive generous stipend funding over four years (three years of fellowship and one year of top-off funding added to an assistantship) as well as mentoring, networking, grant-writing, and professional development experiences.

Applicants must be current PhD students, in good standing, who are completing their first year of study in the UIC doctoral program nominating them. Only domestic students are currently eligible.
